

ABOUT RUSHIA BROWN

Rushia Brown was born in Bronx, NY and raised in South Carolina. Through hard work and dedication, she was one of the top student-athlete recruits in the state of South Carolina as a senior; being courted by esteemed universities such as Harvard, Duke University and her then dream school, the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. With the recent loss of her father, Rushia chose to stay close to home and attend Furman University.

Rushia's collegiate years lead to a 10 year professional career overseas, which spanned 5 countries; Spain, France, Italy, Greece and Korea and 7 years in the WNBA; 6 years in Cleveland and 1 year in Charlotte.

Winning a number of International Championships and 4 European Championships, her work ethic and 3 years playing professionally in Europe prepared her for the WNBA. During her 7 years in the WNBA, Rushia was a part of the Eastern Conference Championship team but never captured a WNBA title. The experience and relationships built during her tenure assisted in forming her post career aspirations.

Rushia decided to transition into her life after basketball. To date she has founded multiple companies including President and CEO of OverTime Basketball Academy and development of the Women's Professional Basketball Alumni Association (WPBAA).

Based in Atlanta, GA is where she continues to be a vessel of growth for the very game that changed her life. She humbly uses her experiences and influence to move everyone she comes in contact with to transform their lives.
